BOMIS, Samastipur was established in 2020 by Mr. Indra Bhushan Mishra as an initiative of the Udaynacharya Memorial and Educational Trust.

The school Began its journey with around 100 students and 15 Teachers in 2020. It is a self-financing inclusive day school in Samastipur, Bihar. The school campus has a built-up area of half of its total area, while the rest of the space comprises a lush, green cover. The building was designed and built keeping in mind the ideal environment for children, the philosophy of the school and evolving paradigms.

The campus has sports fields, gardens, play areas and courtyards, with over 50 species of trees and plants.

The school is surrounded by green neighbourhood of Samastipur on one side and the main road connecting the city on the other. While there is a planned space for every activity, there are also many open "mixed-use" areas. The entire campus is challenge compliant.

Mr. Indra Bhushan Mishra envisioned a learning experience in which the Arts and Sports are as important as academic learning and wanted to create a paradigm where being a good citizen was more important than being a good student. BOMIS aims to nurture independent minds, and create a space where students are encouraged to actualise their innate and unique potential.
